Read the following passage:

The relentless march of artificial intelligence continues to redefine human boundaries, blending creativity with computation and challenging the very essence of what it means to think. In a world where algorithms compose symphonies and craft poetry, the line between human ingenuity and machine intelligence becomes ever more blurred, leaving society to ponder the ethics and implications of this technological evolution.

Choose the statement that best summarizes the passage given above:

1. Artificial intelligence has no impact on human creativity.
2. Artificial intelligence is challenging traditional notions of human thought and creativity.
3. Algorithms are incapable of producing creative outputs like symphonies and poetry.
4. The passage argues that artificial intelligence is ethically superior to human intelligence.
